

BELL TENT ON THE LOWER HILLSIDE

Kernow

Hartland's neighbour on the same stretch of hillside, with its own deck and the gas cooking facilities the two tents share.

Sleeps up to 4 · A double bed and two single beds · Dogs welcome

Kernow, the Cornish word for Cornwall, is the second of the two bell tents on the lower hillside, sharing the stretch with Hartland. It has its own private deck with a chiminea on it, matting underfoot, and a double bed and two singles all made up with bedding and towels before you get here.

The two tents share the gas cooking facilities that sit directly opposite them, which means breakfast happens where you are staying rather than at the far end of the park. There is still no cooking inside the tent — that holds for every bell tent we have.

Height-wise Kernow is the sensible middle. You get the raised outlook over the fields without the steep path the upper tents demand, and the walk back down to the shower block is a gentle one rather than a descent you think twice about at eleven at night. The bell tents run from April to September.

Where it sits: On the lower hillside beside Hartland, up a gentle rise from the valley floor — high enough to look out over the fields, low enough that the walk down for a shower isn't a chore.

Good to know before you book

- The gas cooking facilities are outside, directly opposite the tent, and shared between Kernow and Hartland. There is no cooking inside the tent.
- If both tents want the gas at once, the cook deck at the facilities is down on the valley floor and open to everyone.
- Showers and toilets are in the shared block on the valley floor, open 24 hours, with baby changing in both the male and female toilets. Bring a torch for the walk back after dark.
- It's a gentle rise up to Kernow rather than a climb — noticeably easier than the path to St Petroc, St Enodoc and Sea Campion on the upper hillside, but not flat. The camping-field tents, Fistril and Polzeath, are the level option.
- Bedding and towels are provided and the beds are made up. Bring your own food.
- Four in a bell tent is still plenty spacious: one round canvas room with a double and two singles in it.
- The bell tents run from April to September. Outside those months the lodges, the school bus and the Airstream stay open, and camping pitches run in their own seasons.
- Dogs are welcome. Please keep them on a lead no longer than two metres, exercise them in the area provided, and don't leave them unattended. We can't accept Rottweilers, Dobermans, Bull Mastiffs, Pit Bull Terriers or their crosses.
- Arrive from 3pm, leave by 10am.
